Hancock schools consider $32.4M expansion project

BY SHANNON JENKINS Staff Writer

A $32.4 million building project may be a possibility for the Hancock County School District.

The school board is eye- additional ing this building project now to accomodate expected growth in the future.

Superintendent Education Mike Ladner and the school board have enlisted the guidance of architect Gary Bailey, of Johnson Bailey Henderson McNeel Architects, to oversee the project.

Bailey proposed three options to the board.

Option One Option One calls for additions to the existing facilities and is broken down by school, needs and cost.

• Charles B. Murphy ly renovated but minor work may be necessary

During the Aug. 13 school board meeting, members voted for Option Two. The board chose this option because it allows for more growth than the other (800) options, and it provides the community with smaller schools. Southern Regional seeking to work out county sewer woes

BY BENNIE SHALLBETTER Staff Writer

If you are wondering just what is going on with county plans for sewer service you are not alone. There seems to be a general disagreement between even various districts involved in the plan, which began to take shape two years ago this month.

Today, hopefully, some of the questions will be answered when URS Corp., Southern Regional Wastewater Management District Plant. The report will cover various aspects of the nearly-$11 million expansion and focus on plant capacity for wastewater treatment. At least their version of it. Even the engineers and planners involved in the expansion don't entirely agree on the plant's capacity. The company is the same one that produced a substantial report on a wastewater plan for the county which was released in January 2001. In that report, a twenty-year projection of county needs was laid out with suggestions for implementation. The current expansion was included in the projection and general plans for it were included in the report. At that time, the DEQ plan that would allow Southern Regional to be the only treatment facility. Plans outlined were for pipelines to transport waste from various locations such as Kiln and Pearlington to be treated at the plant. Talk of a north county plant some time in the distant future was also mentioned.

Now there seems to be a question of whether the plant has the capacity to handle waste from the first community asking to come on line, Pearlington.

Pearlington is now sitting with enough grant and loan money to begin building the first phase of a collection system, but is unable to access the funds unless the town can be guaranteed a place to have its waste water treated.

At a recent meeting at the Gulf of Mexico Program office - facilitators for the plan - it was suggested that a temporary package treatment plant (a portable plant) be used to treat Pearlington's wastewater. Though this would work as an interim plan, a permanent solution to the problem would have to be agreed on permit for the plant. It was a suggestion that a permanent treatment plant may be built in Pearlington.

Before any of this can be done, all the entities involved must sign a contract with the Southern Regional District. Current contracts exist with Bay St. Waveland and Louis, Hancock County Water and Sewer District. The problem is that these contracts stipulate that any entity adding an independent consulting extra customers and there- billing process. firm, based in San Francisco fore requiring extra capaciwith local offices in ty for wastewater treat-Metairie, presents a report ment, must bear 100 peron new expansions at the cent of the cost for needed upgrades to accommodate their treatment needs.

> New contracts were sent out stipulating that the cost for adding treatment capacity would be shared among all the customers of the district. Critics say the districts, which include the two cities, Hancock Water and Kiln, Sewer, Pearlington have been dragging their feet in getting around to signing the new contracts and, depending on whom you ask, the answer to who is holding up the process varies. Until all three entities holding current contracts agree to sign the new contract, the only contract that be offered to Pearlington and Kiln is the old version, said Southern Regional Attorney Ronnie Artigues. That would make those two communities urged the various sewer and liable for 100 percent of the water districts to come cost of added expansions for together in a countywide their wastewater treatment, something they could not afford. Artigues said he believed that the two cities were agreeable to the new contract. Representatives from Hancock Water and Sewer District say they will not sign a new contract until the two cities have signed. So far, no one has signed.

In other business: Rodney Hendrick appeared as a representative from Louisiana State University to present a plan for composting waste from the Southern Regional Plant. Basic components for handling a composting operation were included in the recent expansion. Hendrick said there were many markets for the composted material. Composted material is used on the White House Lawn, he told the board. Board president Mayor Eddie Favre suggested moving ahead with the study. but board member Rocky Pullman suggested that the plant hold back on any plans. Pullman said his main concern was the smell that might be generated from a composting opera-before DEQ would issue a tion. The board was offered a sample of composted material more than a year ago and decided to look into the process at that time in the interest of the process being a potential money saver for the plant. •

•Plant administrator Sheryl Colson presented the board with a first budget draft based on figures from the new headworks. The headworks will accurately measure flow from each entity to be used in the came when John Burgess, a Pentecostal minister who also had an interest in a bankrupt road materials company, told FBI agents kickbacks were paid. He offered to cooperate in an undercover investigation of the system and help set up Mid-State Pipe.

The step-by-step story of how "Operation Pretense" unfolded, from its inception to its end, is told in a fascinating new volume written by University of Southern Mississippi professor of accountancy, James R. Crockett. Entitled FBI's Sting on County Corruption in Mississippi," it is soon to be published by the University Press of Mississippi.

The "heavenly" tie-in Federal agents and prosecutors did the heavy lifting, helped, in part, by state officials, and some vendors who were "flipped" by the FBI.

Crockett takes us behind how the county supervisor the scenes of this landmark crackdown on lower governmental corruption. His is not merely a scorecard account of the county officials who were indicted and convicted. As a bonus, he also relates the workings of related corruption that brought down several members of the State Highway Commission in the 1980s.

The USM professor shares with us rich material he found in his meticulous "Operation Pretense--The research: Some outrageous and laughable statements county official made when they are caught red-handed taking kickbacks; or incredible places, such as a men's toilet in the county courthouse, where ill-gotten gains changed hands.

woods of rural Mississippi as though "I was maybe like Pretense Operation reached.

When Perry Supervisor Trudie Westmoreland wasbrought to trial in U.S. Court District Hattiesburg in 1987, it became something of a spectacle, with colorful criminal defense lawyer Al Binder of Jackson vying against the government's ace prosecutor, James B. Tucker.

Westmoreland, owned a string of small businesses in addition to holding county office, also was the first supervisor to be brought to trial on Pretense-related charges. Her conviction, as Crockett writes, "proved to be pivotal (and) demonstrated the strength of the government's cases.' Her testimony, which

Crockett relates in detail, could make good script material for a TV soap opera. Westmoreland testified that she took $760 FBI agent Jerry King, posing as a salesman for fictitious Mid-State Pipe, handed her because she wanted to act from New York City, that I wasn't a little ole country girl from Perry County."

Little ole country girl or not, Westmoreland wound up with a nine-year prison sentence, later appealed to no avail all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court. After serving two years, she was let out on parole.

Later, the three-out-offive Pretense conviction rate among Perry County supervisors was topped by Hancock County where four of the five supers bit the dust in Pretense. But by this time, the county officials had gotten wise and began copping pleas, rather than tackling the feds in court. And by 1988, many counties around the state, forced by then-Gov. Ray Mabus into voting in a statewide referendum on adopting a "county unit" system to replace the perennial "beat" system of road management, moved toward in favor of the "unit" system.

Johnson, with his eye on running for governor in 1991 with support of the politically-potent county supervisors, doused cold water on what benefits that the Mabus-backed county unit system might bring. Republican Johnson himself wound up on the political ash heap, being defeated in the 1991 GOP gubernatorial primary by a dark horse political novice, named Kirk Fordice. Crockett's book should serve as a constant reminder that graft and corruption is not an evil confined to the big cities and urban states up North. As Pretense" "Operation proves, it lurks out at the country crossroads in some of the poorest counties in Mississippi.

Ironically, as Crockett tells us, the word Pretense, coined after Rev. Burgess came forth, stood for Ten-Percent "Preacher's Supervisors Expense.'

Participants are encouraged to call the GBNERR office at (228) 475-7047 to pre-register and to receive additional details, regarding the cleanup.

A free T-shirt will be given to everyone who participates in the cleanup. Children are welcome and encouraged to participate in the cleanup, but must be accompanied by an adult.

After the cleanup, the Grand Bay NERR is sponsoring a picnic for all Jackson County Coastal Cleanup participants at Shepard State Park in Gautier from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Cleanup participants will need to show their Tshirt at the park to receive a free grilled hot dog, cold drink and chips.

The GBNERR is located near the community of Pecan in southeast Jackson County and includes wild lands and waterways from Bangs Lake to the Alabama state line.

A major goal of the reserve is to provide for research coordination and dissemination of scientific data to the community and local decision-makers to provide sound information on which to base management decisions.

The 18,000-acre reserve is home to several rare or endangered plant and animal species and serves as an essential nursery habitat for numerous important commercial and recreational fish species.

GBNERR is managed through state-federal partnership between the DMR and its local partners - Mississippi Secretary of State's Office, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Mississippi State University, The Nature Conservancy, and the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration.

Mississippi The Department of Marine Resources is dedicated to enhancing, protecting and conserving marine interests of the state by managing all marine life, public trust wetlands adjacent uplands and waterfront areas to provide for the optimal commercial, recreational, educational and economic uses of these resources consistent with environmental concerns and social changes. Tourism: Small businesses, big industry in Hancock Co.

recently released data on the Key Indicators for FY 2001 Economic Impact for separated as non-gaming Statewide Tourism and and gaming, as well as a Recreation in Mississippi.

Similarities of the state's data and Hancock County are across the board, as Hancock County could be considered a microcosm of the state's tourism industry.

As the focus of this year's Business and Industry Expo is on "Small Businesses" the importance of these findings are most definitely pertinent. The list, to follow of small businesses around the state and within Hancock County are a sampling of what the state considers "non-gaming" tourism businesses:

Restaurants, concessions, fast food, quick stop grocery stores, bar an beer parlors, hotels, motels and other lodging, department stores, antique, gift, novelty and souvenir shops, selected gasoline service stations purchases, transportation services, rental, leasing and auto repair shops.

Also, public golf courses, motion pictures, night clubs, bowling, billiards and pool, skating rinks, parks, race trucks, athletic events, aquariums, botanical gardens, museums. advertising specialties, printing and publishing and laundries.

All, most, and more, are considered to be "small businesses," so as you can see, the tourism industry affects our daily lives by contributing to the success of the small businesses that we all enjoy and depend.

You will note that the data to follow, provided by

The state of Mississippi the Mississippi Division of Tourism and the Mississippi Sales Tax Commission, is impact total Typically, the non-gaming sector is primarily "small businesses.'

Parents ask Dr. Ruth McPhearson, psychologist-

"What's going on with my child who seems bright but can't manage at school?"

Poor schoolwork could reflect problems in other areas of a child's life including relationships with friends and family. It might also be the result of a learning disability. Especially if your child underperforms in one subject compared to others, gets angry or easily frustrated with homework, says "I feel dumb...I can't keep up." Other clues could include—if your child is the class clown, seems unhappy to go to school, complains of tummy aches and headaches on Sunday night, is symptom-free on weekends. Talk to your child's teacher first, then if concerns continue, testing can help in the early identification of learning disabilities. Results will direct you to resources to help your child develop a lifelong skill of enjoying learning. If you would like us to send you more information about learning disabilities, call us now or anytime. There's always somebody standing by who can talk with you.

Phase 2 contract awards for its 2001 Small Business Innovation Research (SBIR) program, including six from NASA's Office of Technology Transfer at Stennis Space Center. The selected research projects will be conducted by 124 small, high-technology firms located in 27 states.

The awards have a total value of approximately $85

The goals of NASA's SBIR program are to stimulate technological innovation, increase the use of small businesses - including women-owned and disadvantaged firms - in meeting federal research and development needs and increase private, sector commercialization of innovations derived from federally sponsored research.

A total of 291 proposals were submitted by SBIR contractors completing Phase 1 projects.

These proposals were evaluated to determine that they met SBIR Phase 1 research innovations for meeting agency needs.

The companies and projects selected for negotiation of Phase 2 contracts through Stennis'

FINANCIAL FOCUS

Boost your income - even when rates fall investments to provide some of your income, you've probably been concerned about falling interest rates years. In fact, rates are now as low as they've been in 14 years - so what's an investor to do?

Actually, you have some pretty good choices. For example, you may want to build a "bond ladder" by investing in bonds with different maturities. You also may want to consider investing in high-quality stocks and mutual funds that have consistently increased dividends.

Let's take a look at both these techniques:

Building a "bond ladder" - If all your bonds mature at the same time, you could be at a disadvantage if market interest rates are low. Where will you put your money to gain a reasonable income stream?

One possibility is to create a bond ladder. By owning a group of bonds that mature at different times, you can help protect yourself from the effects of fluctuating interest rates.

If rates are low when some of the bonds in your ladder mature, you'll still have some higher-yielding "rungs" working for you.

If you depend on your And when rates are high, you can obviously reinvest your bond proceeds at a more favorable rate. • Buying stocks and over the past couple of mutual funds that consistently increase dividends - Years ago, stocks generally paid out more dividends than they do today. Now, many companies prefer to reinvest profits into their business, with the hope of becoming more competitive and, ultimately, increasing their share price.

And yet, dividends have not disappeared. Over time, if you invest in a company that has steadily increased its dividends, and it continues to do so in the future, you can potentially boost your income.

Of course, you must find those types of stocks, as well as those mutual funds that invest in dividend-paying stocks. You can find dividend producers in almost all market sectors.

If you're interested in a particular stock, and you wonder what dividends it pays out, look in the company's annual report. If you're looking at mutual funds, try to find ones in the "growthand-income" category.

Be aware, though, that equities and equity-based mutual funds are subject to market risk, including the potential loss of principal. Above all else, look for quality. Remember, you're not seeking dividends for a one-time payment - you want to increase your flow of income for years to come. That's why you'll want to invest in only the highestquality stocks and mutual funds. These are the types of investments that have continued to raise their dividends over time.

A financial professional can help you find those stocks and funds that have dividend-paying prospects - but keep in mind that these investments do not offer a fixed rate of return and may not distribute dividends in the future.

As you move closer to retirement, it may become more and more important for you to increase your investment income.

Clark: Mississippians rank high in generosity – again

THE SEA COAST ECHO

Secretary of State Eric Clark, whose office oversees charities in Mississippi, recently praised Mississippians for ranking near the top in a national survey on generosity and charitable giving.

"We've known all out lives that Mississippians ate a generous people, and here's more evidence," Clark said. "We live it the heart of the Bible Belt, and believe in loving in our neighbors and helping those who are less fortunate."

According to Chronicle of Philanthropy (August 8, 2002), a national periodical devoted to charitable giving, Mississippians are near the top in every category comparing charitable, tax deductions to income. In several different income categories, Mississippi citizens ranked second in the nation, behind

Final plea for BSL area hosts

THE SEA COAST ECHO

Foreign high school students are scheduled to arrive very soon for academic semester and year program homestays, and the sponsoring organization needs a few more local host families.

According to Pacific Intercultural Exchange (P.I.E.) Executive Director John Doty, the students are all between the ages of 15 and 18 years, are Englishspeaking, have their own spending money, carry accident and health insurance, and are anxious to share their cultural experiences with their new American families.

P.I.E. currently has programs to match almost every family's needs, ranging in length from a semester to a full academic year, where the students attend local high schools.

P.I.E. area representatives match students with host families by finding common interests and lifestyles through an informal in-home meeting.

Going Bananas

Japanese fiber banana is a coldhardy species

SOUTHERN GARDENING BY NORMAN WINTER

MSU Horticulturist Central Mississippi Research & Extension Center

When I say you need some fiber, I'm not talking about bran flakes for breakfast. If you love tropical plants as much as I do, you have got to try the. Japanese fiber banana in your landscape.

Even though it is a tropical, gardeners on the Tennessee border can grow this cold-hardy banana species.

The plant is known botanically as Musa basjoo. The banana gets about 10 feet tall and adds great interest to the landscape.

Its cold hardiness makes it possible to grow bananas throughout the South, allowing gardens to look like the West Indies. Though it may be hard to well-mulched believe, Japanese fiber bananas have been known to return from minus 20 degrees.

The flowers are among the most beautiful and exotic, but don't start counting on a harvest -- these bananas aren't edible.

Most gardeners and garden centers do not know

Plant the Japanese fiber banana in the spring after the soil has warmed and threats of freezing weather has past. Full sun and fertile, well-drained, organicrich soil is needed for both vigor and cold hardiness. Amend the soil if needed with 3 to 4 inches of compost or humus and till to a depth of 8 to 10 inches.

For beds with bananas, add three pounds of a slow release 2-1-2 or 2-1-3 fertilizer per 100 square feet of bed space. Sometimes these formulas are hard to find. If you can't find this ratio fertilizer, use three pounds of a 12-6-6. Plant the banana at the same depth it is growing in the container.

Bananas are heavy feeders and need light, monthly applications of fertilizer and plenty of moisture. Keep them well mulched. Trim leaves as needed to keep them attractive. Once the foliage has been frosted in the fall, trim and add an extra layer of mulch. Despite the cold hardiness of the Japanese fiber banana, soggy winter soil places a spring return in jeopardy.

You will notice that Japanese fiber banana plants produce suckers. Divide these suckers to place in other garden locations or you can give some

Use the Japanese fiber banana to add coarse-textured foliage to the perennial or cottage garden, transforming it into the look of the islands.

Plant them around swimming pools, water gardens, and next to the deck, porch or patio. Grow with other tropicals like elephant ears, hibiscus and allamandas.

The Japanese fiber banana is sold generically and usually comes with a tag that says Musa basjoo or basjoo. Look also for the yellow Chinese wax banana Musella lasciocarpa, which is cold hardy throughout zone 7. The bright yellow bloom on this one will make you want to invite the neighbors over for a party.

Mario e Paola

During the several years my work required extensive foreign traveling, I tried to take Stella with me on at least one trip a year.

On one trip to La Spezia, Italy, she couldn't come with me and I had to go alone. That weekend I went with some friends, Paola and Mario, to their place in the hills 40 miles from the city.

It was and is a wonderful retreat. My room that night was the upper floor of a small stone house a thousand years old. I slept on a straw mattress and was warmed by a fire in the small raised fireplace by the bed.

I fell asleep watching the firelight flicker on the stone walls of my small room. Later that night, I awoke and listened to the night noises around me.

Outside my window, I could hear a waterfall and a bird that sang to me and the rest of the world through most of the night.

The next morning we. had an Italian breakfast of coffee, toast and fruit and went to the rear of the house to look at Mario's small vineyard.

He proudly showed me his rows of grapes and assured me that if I came back the next fall we would make wine using the old wine press under the village church.

At midday we went to the local restaurante / bar and sat in a room with the locals from the tiny village for our Sunday meal. The room held only a few large tables; no real menu.

People sat wherever there was room and were served by large plates of food that continuously came out of the kitchen. Through the windows, I could see the valley and hills and another small village on the hill to our right.

Paola, Mario's wife was upset that Stella had not made the trip with me. She said so to me and also to the people that joined us at our table, and to the restaurante proprietor at the bar as well as the cook in the kitchen (who had learned her English in Scotland and spoke it with a rich Scottish burr).

I sat explaining why Stella wasn't with me for perhaps the tenth time when I heard Paola's voice over the noise in the room, "Stella! How are vou?" I looked up to see Paola on the phone in the corner of the room. She had called Stella in Mississippi!

I quickly got up to go talk to her myself, when someone stopped me to say hello. When I looked again, the proprietor was talking to Stella explain-

Carefully wash and clean chicken and pat dry. Season inside of chicken with salt and pepper and place in roasting pan breast side up. Crush garlic with knife blade and place two cloves, two sprigs of rosemary, and 5 or 6 olives in the cavity of the chicken. Place remaining garlic, rosemary and olives in the bottom of the roasting pan. Roast chicken 45 minutes at 350 degrees or until juices run clear. Uncover chicken and roast an additional 15 minutes until chicken browns. Baste chicken with melted butter and pan juices often through roasting process. Remove from oven and let sit for 10 minutes and serve. Serve with long grain and wild rice, candied carrots, and a cucumber salad. I have tried to recreate this from memory; a memory of a wonderful Sunday afternoon dinner once prepared for us by Mario and Paola. While the chicken I make is very good, it never seems to equal Mario and Paola's. I think their secret is that they use olives from their own trees marinated in their own seasoning.

'Bid for Life' kicks off at Beau Rivage

THE SEA COAST ECHO

Artisans and philanthropists link forces at 7 p.m. Saturday, August 17 for a celebrated evening of art and altruism at the 7th annual South Mississippi AIDS Task Force (SMATF) "Bid for Life" primary fundraiser in Biloxi's Beau Rivage Resort Magnolia Ballroom.

ty John "Chappy" Chapman and his wife, Starr, and honorary chair Bruce Nourse of Beau Rivage, this year's "Bid for Life" includes both a silent and live auction.

Over 150 artists donated original works and numerous Gulf Coast businesses provided gratis services to assemble a spectacular array of original art, specialty items, resort escapes, services, and vacation packages available for bidding.

Ray Zanders Trio will provide entertainment, and coordinators encourage guests to dress in Coast casual attire.

"Bid for Life" tickets are available in advance for $35 per person and $60 per couple; at the door, $40 per person and $70 per couple.

To purchase advance tickets, guests may contact SMATF at (228) 385-1214 to charge tickets with VISA or It's in there.

Who's getting married. When the church revival will be held. What's going on at the civic clubs. Just a few of the many questions answered by The Sea Coast Echo. We've been around for over 110 years keeping you up to date with your community. And that's something of which we're very proud. Whether you're a fan of the Sports page or enjoying searching the classifieds for a good bargain, "It's In the Paper." And that's something that doesn't come very easily with the click of the remote or spin of the radio dial. So read The Sea Coast Echo, and let us bring the community home to you.

It's in the paper.

THE SEA COAST ECHO The 2002-2003 Bay High cheerleader squad attended UCA Summer Camp at the University of Southern Mississippi in Long Beach this summer.

The squad took top honors as being selected Camp Champs. By earning this award, the squad has been invited to perform in the nationally televised Citrus Bowl half-time show in November. Bay High also received top honors in the pom dance routine competition and received an allsuperior trophy for their week of evaluations. Three trophies and 10 superior ribbons were earned by this year's squad. A new award given by UCA named the Traditions Award was also given to Bay High for performing one of their traditional dances and cheer.

Sheena Johnson, Brittany Strong, Blair Strong, Ashley Ladner, and Bonnie Myers were selected by UCA judges as being named UCA All-Star Cheerleaders.

What was different about our visits with Mario and Paola was that unlike other Europeans who, when they have visitors, consider their city their dining room and take you out to eat, Mario and Paola often entertain their guests with diners at their home. From this I was able to get in the urges farmers to update history

Commodity producers are urged to verify and update records on planted and prevented planted acres filed with the USDA Farm Service Agency (FSA) by August 31, announced Jackie Williams, Pearl River-Hancock, Harrison FSA acting county executive director.

"Early submission of corrected acreage reports will result in a more timely issuance of their program payments," said Williams.

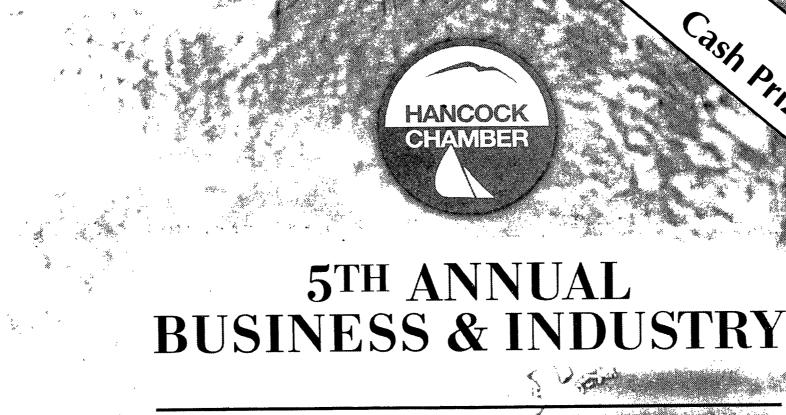

"This information is required by the 2002 Farm Bill and must be correct if farmers are to receive accurate direct and countercyclical payments."

All farm owners and operators will soon receive a notification letter that includes a copy of a Summary Acreage History Report on file with FSA.

The Summary Acreage History Report details the acreage reported to FSA for each farm. It includes planted acres, and acres prevented from being planted, for 1998 through 2001.Covered commodities include wheat, corn, grain sorghum, barley, oats, upland cotton, rice, soybeans, sunflower seed, canola, flaxseed, mustard, safflower, and rapeseed.

If the information in the Summary Acreage History Report is correct, producers do not need to take any action. If the information is wrong, producers will need to provide verifiable documentation of acreage and yields to their local FSA Complimentary Food & Beverages

Door Prizes & Cive Aways office by Aug. 31. Verifiable documentation may include seed receipts, production records, and crop insurance records that can be identified both by crop and tract. All verifiable documentation is subject to FSA County Committee review and approval. For more information on 2002 Farm Bill issues, producers may call or visit their local Farm Service Agency office of USDA Service, or they can website http://www.usda.gov/farm-
